| Battery Life Instruction                                                           | The battery life may be affected by the following factors: battery charging and discharging times, operating system, brightness setting of LCD screen, application program (especially video playing, games, etc.), power management setting. Generally, the battery life of notebook computers is limited, and the battery efficiency and use time will decrease with the increase of use times. This kind of normal battery loss is a normal phenomenon. |
